No Money to Schools Plenty to Assessor

On February 8, 1962, Hempstead County Tax Assessor Carter Sutton rejected the Hope School District Board's proposal to revive the property reassessment program and advised the board that current revenues ought to be "sufficient to maintain the schools."

That's what you read in yesterday's Star. This morning your editor checked the total annual operating expense of the office of Tax Assessor for the last 12 years — 1951 through the indicated total for 1962.

Under Carter Sutton the Tax Assessor's office expense hit an all-time high his first year, 1961, and will set still another high by the end of 1962.

The public schools don't need money — but the Tax Assessor does!

We are publishing below the 12-year record of the Tax Assessor's office expense as filed in the office of County Clerk. These are official audit figures from 1951 through 1960. The figures for 1961 and the first half of 1962 are taken from the Warrant Register. Warrants for the first half of 1962 total $5,100, which includes some extra expense during the spring which won't be repeated in the last half-year. This would put last-half expense at $4,900, making a total for 1962 of $10,000, based on the Warrant Register report.

Here is the 12-year record of expense in the Tax Assessor's office:

1951	$4,650
1953	6,600
1954	6,600
1955	7,920
1956	8,470
1957	7,700
1958	7,700
1959	7,700
1960	7,875
1961	9,997
1962	10,000

It's a poor rule that won't work for both sides. Mr. Sutton rejects aid for the public schools but at the same time inflates the budget of his own office with extra help at the taxpayers' expense.

Yet the public schools are the most vital institution and cost 85% of the taxpayer's dollar.

This is the picture of a greedy and uninformed public official.

He's asking for a second term when the voters go to the polls next Tuesday.

Vote him out.

Jr. Auxiliary Will Hold a Workshop

For instruction in the production of articles for the Christmas Bazaar, members of the Hope Junior Auxiliary have planned to hold a workshop on the patio of its president, Mrs. James Branch, Friday morning at 10 a. m. Mrs. Billy Duckett will conduct the workshop. Swimming, and sandwiches will be served during the noon hour.

Mrs. R. L. Broach, by request, will again give free bridge lessons to teen-agers during August at the Hope Youth Center. Assisting will be Mrs. George Frazier, Mrs. George Peck, Mrs. Lloyd Guerin and Mrs. George Wright. The time of these lessons will be announced later.

Mrs. Branch, conducting the July meeting of the organization heard reports of the standing committees and officers.

As an introduction to the Art Show to be held early next year, Mrs. Peck requested permission to rent prints of similar nature to those shown on the Telestar broadcast. These prints will be placed in the High Schools to stimulate interest in art prior to the show.

Contract for Paris Airport

PARIS, Ark. (AP)—J. T. Boyd Construction Co. of Ratcliff has been awarded an $8,958 contract to build the Paris Municipal Airport.

Mayor Van Pennington said plans call for hangars and an administration building. Work on the project has begun.

The airport will be located east of Paris on 43 acres given the city by the Subaco Abbey. The runway will be 2,400 feet long.

Estes Had Aid From Farmers, McClellan Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., claimed evidence today that Billie Sol Estes and some of the farmers he dealt with juggled checks and receipts in an elaborate cover-up operation.

McClellan tossed that into the midst of hearings before his Senate Investigations subcommittee.

The subcommittee is investigating allegations that political influence and favoritism for the gift-giving Estes helped the Pecos, Tex., financier build a business empire based on deals under farm aid programs. Estes has since been declared bankrupt.

McClellan gave no details of the check and receipt juggling, which he said was just a manipulation to provide phony evidence that purported land sale and lease-back arrangements between Estes and the farmers were bona fide.

A House subcommittee continued its questioning of R. E. Turner, an Agriculture Department audit investigator from Dallas, Tex., about delays in checking on Estes' financial condition.

Turner testified Wednesday he was not told the case had any high priority when he was assigned to it, and he worked first on other matters he considered more important, only preliminary work had been done when Estes was arrested in March, and other agencies took over, he said.

"I have found, in 10 years of experience, that the older an investigation becomes the most difficult it is to locate witnesses. For that reason, I make it a practice to work on the older cases and try to clear them up first," he said.

That was the procedure he followed in the Estes case, he said.

The Senate subcommittee has heard weeks of testimony that Estes ostensibly sold land to farmers, then leased it back from them after some of their cotton planting allotments had been transferred to the land. Witnesses have called it just a scheme to cover up what amounted to a sale of their allotments—which is forbidden by law—and said no bona fide land sale was involved.

Chrysler Profits Are Spiraling

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp., which lost $15.7 million in the first half of last year, reported today a profit of $11.9 million for the first six months of 1962. The net was equal to $1.31 a share.

The turnaround came despite sub-par sales of $1.07 billion which barely exceeded the $995 million total of the first half of 1961.

For the second quarter Chrysler reported earnings of $10 million, or $1.17 a share to sales of $572 million. These figures compared with earnings of $6.2 million on sales of $563 million in the similar quarter a year ago.

The second quarter also showed improvement over the first three months of 1962 when the automaker earned $1.3 million on sales of $498 million.

The board of directors, meeting in New York, declared the usual 25 cent quarterly dividend.

In 1958, on an almost identical dollar sales volume, Chrysler lost $25.2 million in the first six months.

The corporation reported a rise in defense sales from $9 million in the first half of last year to $130 million in the comparable period this year.

Model year production in United States and Canadian plants, which ends this week, will total about 813,000 cars and trucks, up 6,000 from the 1961 model year, the corporation said.

Today marked the end of the first year as president for Lynn A. Townsend, who succeeded L. L. (Tex) Colbert.

Fulbright Scared Opponent Says

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Winston Chandler, opposing Sen. J. William Fulbright for U.S. senator from Arkansas, charged Wednesday night his opponent is running a scared race.

Chandler said Fulbright waited too late to begin his campaign and "now he's trying to jump on my platform." He added, "But I'm going to kick him off."

Chandler charged that Fulbright is the "biggest lobbyist for foreign aid in Washington," and said "people are now beginning to believe in my campaign."

This is the 75th anniversary of the Camp Meeting.

Repentance Theme of Evangelist

Evangelist Larry Taylor turned off his fire-brand preaching at First Baptist Church last night to bring a simple, straightforward message on the deep meaning of repentance as another large audience watched with utmost reverence.

His message was a challenge for a more compelling dedication to Christ. He appealed for a re-examination of lives in relationship to Jesus in an effort to bring increased joy, victory and usefulness by following Christ faithfully in daily living.

Taking his text from the 15th chapter of St. Luke, the young evangelist related the story of the prodigal son — the youngest son of a rich man who was extravagant in expenditure, lavish and wasteful until his life became so empty, deplorable and miserable that he ate with the pigs. Finally he came to himself and resolved to do something with his life.

In humility, he asked forgiveness and returned to God and family.

"Only God can bring genuine and lasting peace, and I urge you to repent, and confess and trust in him. He will bring you joy and happiness that you have never before known," the young evangelist urged.

Sermon topic for Thursday night at 7:30 is: "Curse of the Law" and Friday night "Blessed Assurance."

Clerk Office Is Open for Absentees

County Clerk Dick Turnage said today his office in the courthouse will be open all day Saturday, July 28, to issue and vote absentee ballots for the Democratic preferential primary election next Tuesday.

Normally the office closes at Noon Saturday, but it stayed open all day last Saturday and will do so again this coming Saturday.

Deadline for casting absentee ballots is 6:30 p. m. Tuesday, July 31, at the County Clerk's office.

County Clerk J. D. "Dick" Turnage has appealed to election officials for assistance in Tuesday's primary . . . the appeal, by letter, in part says, "As soon as possible after you have completed tallying the votes, I will appreciate it very much if you will bring your list of electors and certificate of election with oaths of judges and clerks, direct to the County Clerk's office . . . this request is in accordance with election laws and it will help your County Clerk to an efficient tally on election night" . . . naturally everyone is interested in the outcome of all races and only through cooperation of election officials can an unofficial tally be made promptly . . . the Star, KXAR, United Press and the Associated Press also urge officials to bring the boxes in as soon as the tally is completed so complete returns can be given to the public.

Rain may have slowed this city's sidewalk sale this morning but it was welcome just the same . . . and from the crowds downtown it couldn't have slowed it much . . . some merchants were able to go right on while others simply moved inside . . . the rain is badly needed in this area.

Mrs. Caroline Monts called Camp and Leroy Johnson this morning and boys wish to thank all the merchants, businesses and individuals for donations which made the trip will not be released until August possible.

Rail Union to Sue to Avert Rule Changes

CHICAGO (AP)—Railroad operating labor sued today to prevent the carriers from changing working rules and threatened to strike unless the railroads called off plans to change the rules.

The nation's railroad management have set Aug. 1 for enforcement of economy changes in operating practices recommended by a presidential commission.

These changes include the elimination of jobs of 13,000 firemen employed on diesel locomotives.

The suit filed in U.S. District Court declared the carriers' action violated the national Railway Labor Act and added:

If the rail management proceed to put into effect the rule revisions announced on July 17, the unions "will be forced to resist said revisions by asking those they represent . . . to withdraw from service" until management cancels its program.

Spokesmen for railroad management made no immediate comment on the lawsuit or on the threat to strike.

The carriers have contended for years that the working rules resulted in "made work" that was unnecessary, costly and damaging to the economic structure of the carriers. They call such labor practices "featherbedding."

The unions maintain the jobs defined in the rules are needed for safe and efficient transportation.

The unions sued for a declaratory judgment setting forth that the changes would violate the Railway Labor Act. The suit also seeks a permanent injunction against the carriers to halt the changes.

Cotton Duster Dies in Crash

WYNNE, Ark. (AP) — A crop-dusting plane nosed into a dive, and crashed near here Wednesday, killing Paul Urfer, 35.

Authorities said the plane crashed in a soybean field near a landing strip two miles south of Wynne. They said Urfer was making a turn for his landing approach when the plane nosed into a dive.

Urfer was killed instantly. The plane did not burn.

Uraes Strike Power for the President

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., urged the Senate Wednesday to pass his bill to legalize temporary and informal strike settlements by the President.

McClellan said President Kennedy averted a strike in the aerospace industry through this method.

The bill, introduced last September, would prohibit strikes at strategic defense facilities and provide a three-man board to conduct hearings. The board's findings would be binding for one year.

Union Czar in Challenge to McClellan

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—James R. Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union, has challenged Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., to repeat outside Senate immunity statements made about him in a Senate investigating subcommittee report.

The subcommittee, of which McClellan is chairman, described Hoffa in a report Wednesday as showing a callous disregard of whether his own union members were robbed by their officers.

Hoffa, here for an Ohio Teamsters conference, said the report "is a complete fabrication and a lie." He labeled McClellan as anti-labor.

Hoffa challenged McClellan to make the statements outside of Senate immunity and said, "and when I sue him, I wonder if he'll take the Fifth Amendment again like he did in Florida."

Hoffa previously had accused McClellan of hiding behind senatorial immunity to avoid testifying at a hearing in Florida on a mail fraud case which Hoffa said amounted to invoking the Fifth Amendment.

PTA Mass Meeting at 7:30 p. m. Friday to Hear Candidates for Assessor

The Hope P. T. A. Council issues an invitation to the public as a whole, and especially parents of school children or pre-school children, to attend a meeting at Hope Senior High School auditorium at 7:30 Friday night, July 27, to hear all candidates for County Tax Assessor express their views as to the reassessment program for the benefit of the schools.

This issue is one of vital importance to the future of education for the youth of Hempstead County. Your vote in the forthcoming Democratic primary is of extreme importance at this time.

The PTA Council does not endorse any candidate. But it does believe in an open statement by candidates so that the public may make its decision. This quotation is from the PTA Manual: "The Parent-Teacher organization takes a stand on principles and issues, not on candidates or political parties."

We therefore issue an invitation, by this notice, to all candidates for the office of Tax Assessor to meet with us and state their case.

We urge again that the public be present.

Reopen All Schools, Va. County Told

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — U.S. District Judge Oren R. Lewis today ordered Prince Edward County schools reopened. The public system has been shut down since 1959 to avoid court-ordered racial integration.

Prince Edward's schools, Lewis replied "may not be closed to avoid the effect of the law of the land as interpreted by the Supreme Court, while the Commonwealth of Virginia permits other public schools to remain open at the expense of the taxpayers."

Lewis ordered Prince Edward's school board to complete plans for the admission of pupils in the elementary and high schools of the county "without regard to race or color and to receive and consider applications to this end at the earliest practical date."

In the decision entered in U.S. District Court, Lewis ordered that these plans be submitted to all counsel of record by Sept. 1, if possible, and to the court on Sept. 7.

Prince Edward's public schools have been closed since the county's Board of Supervisors refused to appropriate funds for their operation in 1959 after a federal court ordered segregation.

Since then the county's 1,400 white children have attended private schools operated by the Prince Edward School Foundation. The county's 6,700 Negro children for the most part have been without formal schooling.

The Prince Edward suit was instituted in 1951 and was one of the five cases involved in the Supreme Court's 1954 decision outlawing racially segregated schools.

Just Kept Going With the Money

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — A young wife reported to authorities here Wednesday that her husband had taken $1,242 from a grocery store safe and her conscience made her tell him to take it back.

But the husband disappeared instead, authorities said.

Mrs. Brenda Joyce Bennett, 19, gave herself up, police said, and told them she stood outside the grocery store with a gun while her husband, Charles Bennett, 22, went in and robbed the safe.

Bennett is a former employee of the store, police said, but had been fired a week before the robbery after some money disappeared from a cash register.

John Alley, manager of the store, said Bennett knew the safe combination. The safe was opened by the combination, then relocked, after the money was taken, he said.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Bennett, police said. Mrs. Bennett was held on an open charge pending investigation. The Bennetts have no children.

Injunction in Emerson Co. Strike

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP) — An injunction was issued Wednesday restraining the International Union of Electrical Workers, its Paragould local and 30 specifically mentioned members from violence in connection with the Emerson Electric Co. strike.

Chancellor Terry Shell signed the injunction which Emerson officials said they sought to end such forms of harassment as the scattering of tacks and nails in driveways of Emerson employees' homes, bottle throwing and splashing of paint on employees' automobiles.

The injunction also prohibits profane or abusive language toward employees.

Threatening or abusive telephone calls also are cited in the injunction, as is the practice of following to closely or proceeding to slowly before automobiles owned by Emerson workers.

The injunction has been approved in form by both parties. The IUE struck the plant June 18. Emerson officials say that since the strike began all the forms of abuse and harassment have been exercised by strikers.

Jim Disinger, plant manager, has hired permanent replacements for strikers who did not return to their jobs June 27.

The union contends the men on strike should be given their jobs back, and Disinger says the replacements are permanent and strikers had enough opportunity to return to work if they had wanted to do so.

The union has circulated petitions in Greene, Craighead and Mississippi counties, and other parts of the state, and has indicated they will be used to ask Gov. Orval E. Faubus to help settle the dispute.

The strike began Jan. 20 after contract negotiations bogged down in a wrangle over fringe benefits.

The candidate slapped at Faubus and McMath, charging Truman Baker of Searcy was in charge of the Highway Commission during the McMath administration when there were audit difficulties.

Charges Flare as Candidates Tour State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gubernatorial candidates crossed the state Wednesday in search of votes, cajoling supporters from podium and platform, over television and radio.

Four of the candidates — Kenneth Coffelt, Vernon Whitten, Dale Alford and Sid McMath — took to the airwaves Wednesday night.

Gov. Orval Faubus spoke at Magnolia, attended a dinner in Camden, then spoke to a crowd in a roped-off downtown street.

David A. Cox called a news conference to announce that he was selling his 880-acre farm to have money for a runoff campaign against Faubus.

Coffelt, after spending most of the day in his headquarters, issued a scathing television and radio attack on the Faubus administration for what he termed alliance with trucking interests to water down enforcement of the Mack-Blackwell amendment and increase load capacities.

Coffelt said the Mack-Blackwell amendment was no longer being enforced and that Faubus is gradually replacing members of the Highway Commission with those who served in 1950 when there was public indignation over handling of state road funds.

Coffelt said if he was elected governor he would appoint former senator Lawrence Blackwell, co-author of the amendment, to the commission.

Coffelt charged that Faubus had allied with trucking interests to increase the maximum load limit of trucks from 5,000 to 73,280 pounds next year. He said the extra road repairs this increased load would make necessary would be paid for by a tax to be placed on all truck operators, although only 1,430 trucks in the state are licensed to carry the heavy loads.

Whitten, also on television, hammered away at the theme of constitutional government. He said that the present constitution "lies trampled, lattered and torn in the path of an onrushing mob of illicitly intoxicated private citizens led by too many punch happy public officials."

Whitten said he had been advised that the topic of the constitution did not have voter appeal and that he should not use it too much in his political talks. But he said he would continue the theme because "there may be no voter appeal, a strong vote repeal is bulging from every crack and seam in our present constitution."

He said that the extent of gambling in Hot Springs and the suits filed against state officials and legislators proved "conclusively" that law and order had broken down at both the state and county level.

He said the only two ways to enforce the constitution are through proper performance of elected officials and from a constitutional right of independent taxpayers to challenge the acts of public officials.

The first way, he said, has "degenerated to a point of small return." He said, referring to suits filed against the state officials and legislators, "the second best way is not in the Pulaski County courthouse and it remains to be seen how far our taxpayers may be provoked and infuriated."

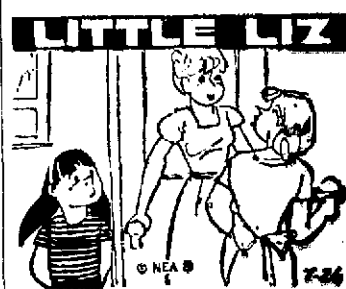

A series of suits have been filed by a citizens group alleging that legislators and state officials had violated a state act by receiving special funds above the maximum salary set for them by law.

Alford and Faubus, on the same stump at Texarkana Tuesday night almost clashed again.

Alford appeared in the city at night, charging that Faubus had "moved in on him" by speaking there 19 minutes earlier. Alford said he had scheduled his talks three weeks ago and Faubus made his arrangements only last week.

The candidate slapped at Faubus and McMath, charging Truman Baker of Searcy was in charge of the Highway Commission during the McMath administration when there were audit difficulties.

Nothing Illegal, Hawkins Declares

MORRILLTON, Ark. (AP)—Marlin Hawkins, Conway County sheriff, said Tuesday absentee balloting in his county has been handled according to the law.

Hawkins said he made the statement in reply to complaints made to the Federal Bureau of Investigation by Gene Wirges, publisher of the Morrilton Democrat and three gubernatorial candidates.

The complaint was made to the FBI since a federal office, U.S. senator, is on the ballot. Wirges charged that absentee ballots already filled out had been mailed to voters.

Hawkins termed the complaints an effort to keep qualified voters from casting a ballot because of fear.

The candidates who wrote letters to the FBI were Rep. Dale Alford, Sid McMath and Vernon Whitten.

Roy K. Moore, special agent in charge of the Little Rock FBI office, said he has asked the Department of Justice to decide whether the matter should be investigated.

Hawkins said all applications for absentee ballots had been handled according to the law and he would welcome an investigation.

scutties and that he (Baker) ran the commission now.

Alford said a cartoon will appear soon, criticizing him for being away from his office in Washington.

Faubus, he said, "has been out of his office more than any governor in the history of the state."

The governor was feted at a non-political appreciation dinner at Camden, then spoke to a crowd estimated by authorities at about 1,500. The appreciation dinner was sponsored by supporters of Faubus in Camden and Ouachita County. Officials said about 175 persons attended.

At Magnolia, Faubus weathered rain and sound equipment failure to get his points over to his audience. Just before he was scheduled to talk, rains poured and the rally was moved inside. Shortly after he started talking, the sound equipment failed.

Faubus denied charges of padding the state payrolls to build a political machine, of abusing his authority and of placing the state Teacher Retirement System in jeopardy.

In Camden, his talk was delayed 30 minutes in deference to Wednesday night prayer meetings held in the community's churches.

Faubus again reviewed the progress of his administration and cited the location of new industry in the state.

He charged that McMath had tried to bring undesirable characters into Hot Springs and said Whitten was not a successful businessman as he had been pictured.

Of Alford, he said, "I know an eye-doctor who is going to have a trailer for sale pretty cheap next week."

McMath said in a television talk that Faubus has written welfare clients soliciting their support even though the law prohibits use of welfare lists for political purposes.

He recommended that the prosecuting attorney's office investigate the matter.

Earlier, McMath charged that the Faubus administration had failed to provide leadership for economic development of the state.

He said the governor's administration seems to be telling voters, "You never had it so good."

But he added, there is no satisfaction in knowing that our rate of losing jobs and losing population is not quite so bad this year as it was last.

Cox, after his news conference, visited Hot Springs and said in an interview, "It is more honorable to have open gambling than closed schools." He said, however, he felt gambling should be regulated by local option election.

Plant Employees Reject Union

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP)—Employees of the Crane Co. of Jonesboro rejected Wednesday representation of the International Association of Machinists by a vote of 233-163.

Roy Fogle, personnel director at the plant, said 421 hourly rated employees were eligible to vote in the election. The election, supervised by the National Labor Relations Board, was limited to employees of the plant hired before June 25.

The 10,000-square foot plant manufactures plumbing fixtures. It was opened in 1960. Employment now is at 495, the all-time high.

A RECORD OF DISTINGUISHED SERVICE TO ARKANSAS SENIORITY Seniority makes Arkansas' delegation the most influential in Congress. Senator Fulbright, who is Chairman of one of the most important committees, ranks 11th in seniority in the Senate, and his colleagues. This year voted him one of 5 most powerful and admired senators. AGRICULTURE Arkansas cotton, rice, soy bean and poultry products command a large share of domestic and foreign markets through Fulbright's influence. He supports forestry, and watershed programs, and REA. BUSINESS Fulbright sponsored establishment of the Small Business Administration, and favors tax relief for small business. A bill he sponsored aids the First Arkansas Development Finance Corp. EDUCATION Fulbright supports aid to education. His bill established Fulbright scholarships. INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT Fulbright helped Arkansas get the first Area Redevelopment project in the Nation. With his help Arkansas received $81,000,000 this year (more than any other state) for flood control, water supply, and navigation. SENATOR J.W. (BILL) FULBRIGHT SEE SENATOR FULBRIGHT AT 6:30 P.M. A MESSAGE TO MY FELLOW ARKANSANS When you elected me to represent you in the United States Senate I was—and am today—deeply appreciative. Serving Arkansas as a member of an influential Congressional delegation that includes the chairmen of four of the most powerful committees of the Congress is a rare honor, and I am proud to represent our state in the Nation's capital. Working together in a mutually beneficial partnership with the National government, our state with its powerful Congressional delegation has made great progress; and Arkansas' economy is better balanced now than at any time in our history. Proof of this is the fact that the State's per capita income has increased more than 300% since you first elected me to Congress. The energy and resourcefulness of our people is the principal reason for such progress, and there is every reason to believe that with your continued support and cooperation we can insure an era of widespread industrial and agricultural growth and of unprecedented prosperity for Arkansas. A Word to the Wives

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: What's the matter with wives? Almost every day I read in your column a letter from some poor unfortunate who finds honeymoon trail led to the bad-lands of matrimony. One complains because her husband has tossed away the moonlight and roses bait with which he caught her.

If so, it's her own fault. My advice to her and all other misguided wives is to stick that line of Shakespeare's in her mirror: "Love is of man's life a thing apart but 'tis a woman's whole existence."

Before marriage the man does the courting; after, the woman. No wife will ever make a go of matrimony who sits back and waits for her husband to pay homage on bended knee. She's got to take the initiative. She must also learn whom he once loved is none of her business. Why fret when she was the one he chose to marry? Her concern should be his present and future. I speak from experience. Because of this philosophy, my late husband was my lover all the 22 years of our married life. —Mrs. P. J. G.

Dear Mrs. G.: I'm for your philosophy up to a point but fair is fair. Husbands should strive to please too. They seek refuge in that old line, "My wife doesn't understand me," when the reverse is often true. Divorce statistics are mute evidence of the number of delinquent husbands who don't concern themselves with their wives' fears and hopes. It takes a mature and sensitive man to give a woman the reassurance, attention and love she needs. For such a husband, or wife, marriage is never a problem.

Dear Helen: My mother let me go steady until I broke with my second boy friend, then put a stop to all dating till I am 16. This happened when I was 13, and a little fool. But I got the habit of going with boys and find it impos- sible to quit.

Father backs mother up. He sees life through his eyes. Just because he chased girls when he was a kid, he thinks I chase boys now. This isn't so. I am now 14 and a half and no fool, having had experience. My older brother is on my side. We are a house divided against itself. Are we, or our parents, right? —Worried

Dear Worried: You talk like the child you still are. That so-called "experience" of yours makes you all the more vulnerable. Be glad instead of critical of your parents' loving supervision. Were you as mature as you profess to be, you would be conscious of your obligation to them. Worry more about your grades and less about the boys. Be your best instead of worst self!

The letter from Worried is sim- ilar to hundreds sent every week to this column. By coincidence the two following came by the same mail. Here's hoping that Worried and other rebellious teenagers will understand after reading them why their parents ban dat- ing and I scold.

Dear Helen: I am a teen-ager of good family, not married, who will have my first child next No- vember. Because of my boy friend's mother, we can't marry until he finishes high in 1963. She won't sign the necessary papers and he isn't of age.

Everybody but my mother thinks it better for him to finish school to get a paying job. My mother forbids us to see each other and says, if necessary, she will go to the law to make his parents support me and the baby. They just haven't the money. Mother says we should have thought of this before. But we didn't, so what's to do? —A Tumbled

Dear Helen: My mother and father are separated. I live with my grandparents who have been kindness itself. How do I tell them that I'm going to have a baby, when it will break their hearts? The boy and I want to marry but being minors, can't without our parents' consent. We want our child to grow up with a mom and dad of his own. I'll kill myself before I part with it. —Helpless

Dear Troubled and Helpless: Send self-addressed, stamped en- velopes for the names and ad- dresses of agencies and social workers in your part of the coun- try who can and will help you both.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to en- close a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful leaflets available. Write for "Sex Educa- tion for Teen-Agers."

King Calls Delay in Albany, Ga.

By DON MCKEE
ALBANY, Ga. (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. announced today a "day of penance" because of violence after a marching demonstration by Negroes, backed by a federal court ruling. King said none of the persons connected with the pro-integration Albany movement was involved in the rock throwing which injured two officers and led to the arrest of 40 persons Tuesday night.

King's statement came shortly after Gov. Ernest Vandiver said in Atlanta that he would call out the National Guard if necessary to maintain peace in this southwest Georgia city.

King termed Tuesday night's incident regrettable and said he would halt demonstrations temporarily if Negroes do not stick to a nonviolent campaign.

Two Admit to P. O. Burglaries

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Postal inspectors said today that Henry Lee Moore, 28, of Little Rock, who was arrested by State Police in Booneville Tuesday, has admitted post office burglaries in Lebam and Beverly in Washington and at Countyline, Okla.

He was to be arraigned later today in Little Rock.

Another man, Eugene Carl Carson, is held in Minneapolis, Miss., in connection with the burglaries, in which postal money orders were stolen.

Investigators found $2,500 in stolen money orders in a wrecked car at Chillicothe, Mo., and said they were some of those taken in the robberies. Missouri State Police said Moore apparently was in the car when it wrecked.

Postal Inspector N. H. Kershaw of Little Rock said a third man was being sought in the case. He said Moore admitted the burglaries and admitted cashing some of the money orders in Minnesota and Iowa. The Washington burglaries were June 25 and 26 and the Countyline, Okla., post office was burglarized July 8.

No Yes Man, Taylor Gets a Good Job

By JAMES MARLOW Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor got the second-best job of his career for looking like a yes-man. It turned out he wasn't, and he quit. Now, for not being a yes-man, he gets the best job.

This puts two strong-willed men in the Pentagon: Taylor, whom President Kennedy called out of retirement last year and has just named chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

How they get along will be one of the interesting stories ahead.

In early 1955, when Taylor was commander of the Army forces in the Far East, he was called back to Washington without being told why. He was ushered into the office of Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson.

In a book which he wrote later—"The Uncertain Trumpet," Taylor said Wilson rambled around the bush and finally cross-examined him on his willingness to accept civilian orders.

Taylor said he reassured Wilson he never had been insubordinate. Then President Eisenhower sent for him, asked the same question, got the same answer. The result: On June 30, 1955, Taylor was named Army chief of staff and, as such, a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Four years later to the day he retired, in between times three things had happened.

He had protested in vain against cutting the size of the Army; he developed the idea the Joint Chiefs of Staff as such should be abolished, and he was in deep disagreement with the Eisenhower administration defense concept.

The book he wrote a year later was about that disagreement.

Briefly, he felt the administration put too much emphasis on the massive retaliation. Since the United States and Russia now had the power to flatten each other, he felt, neither would voluntarily start a nuclear war.

Therefore, he reasoned, what could be expected from communism was a lot of wars smaller than the all-out kind which would require the biggest nuclear weapons.

His point was that this country must be prepared to cope with general atomic war, limited atomic war, conventional war and guerrilla war.

In his book he expanded on his idea that the present Joint Chiefs of Staff should be scrapped and replaced by a single defense chief of staff and an advisory board which he called the supreme military council.

Congress has been opposed to the idea of a single head of the military services. The heads of those services—the Joint Chiefs—would never still for it.

Now as chairman of the Joint Chiefs—a job which puts him in close contact with McNamara—Taylor will have to preside over meetings of the Joint Chiefs who, he said, shouldn't be there.

The prospect of what this may mean doesn't seem to disturb Kennedy.

One of Taylor's first jobs for the President last year as his special military adviser was to study the failure of the disastrous Cuban invasion for which Kennedy took responsibility although his Joint Chiefs had been in on the plans for it.

Later last year Kennedy sent Taylor to South Viet Nam to see what could be done to stop the Communist advance there through guerrilla war.

When Taylor returned it was understood he advised against sending American troops into Viet Nam to fight but that he did suggest sending in military help in the form of planes, military advisers and experts to train the Vietnamese in guerrilla fighting.

Not long afterward the United States began sending helicopters into Viet Nam—they've helped in the fighting since—and troops who, among other chores that avoided direct involvement, teach guerrilla fighting.

Kennedy last year bought Taylor's balance of forces' idea and cast aside "massive retaliation" as the all-purpose philosophy.

Heavy Red Plane Movement in Lane

BERLIN (AP)—Tempelhof Airport authorities told planes flying between West Berlin and Frankfurt today to beware of heavy Soviet air activity in that lane, the southernmost of the three air corridors across Communist East Germany.

Activity was said to be particularly heavy near Zerbst, just southwest of Berlin, where the Russians have an air base.

There were no reports, however, of close flying by Soviet planes, as there were on two days in the past week.

Remarks a Hermit Tires of Hearing

By HAL BOYLE NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks that a hermit gets tired of hearing: "He came all the way out here to get away from it all, and now he doesn't have the carfare to go back."

"Hey, Mr. Whiskers, mind if I take your picture?"

"As I understand it, he has to earn one more merit badge—and then he'll be an Eagle Scout."

"They say he's trying to interest Hollywood in an autobiographical movie entitled, 'Son of Thoreau.'"

"He isn't really lonely except in winter after the tourists leave. When there's nobody around except the field mice to hear him explain about how civilization is nothing but a rat race."

"Boy, the lengths some husbands won't go to in order to avoid helping their wives with the dishes."

"It all started with Murgatroyd liking to hold charcoal cookouts in the back yard. He kept building the fire farther and farther from the house—until he finally disappeared in the trees."

"His only real victory is the day he fills out his income tax return, puts it in a bottle—and throws it into the river!"

"Murgatroyd isn't afraid of work. He just likes to watch it from a safe distance."

"Hey, nature boy, let's see you swing from limb to limb."

"Poll, Inc. Would you mind telling me what is your favorite television program?"

"Excuse me, sir, I'm from the U.S. Census Bureau. Could you tell me how many hermits live in this area? Naturally your replies will be held in the strictest confidence."

"Excuse me, sir, I'm the delivery boy from the town drugstore. The druggist said to tell you he couldn't send out any more mosquito lotion until you pay your bill for the last 10 bottles."

Safecrackers Hit at Wynne

WYNNE, Ark. (AP)—Safecrackers took an undetermined amount of cash from the Cross County Farmers Association in Wynne Tuesday night, police said.

Paul Hess, manager of the association, said he discovered the burglary when he arrived at 8 a.m. to open his office.

A sledge hammer and iron bars used in the burglary were left behind. Burglars must have anti-climatic tear gas, investigating officers said, because they left a gas mask behind.

It was believed about $5,000 was taken, police said. Several checks were left on the floor of the association building.

The association is an oil company and a farmers cooperative.

Cox to Sell Farm to Keep Up Campaign

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—David A. Cox announced today he will sell his 880-acre farm near Weiner to finance a runoff campaign for governor.

Cox said he was confident results of next Tuesday's Democratic primary would put him into a runoff with Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Arlen Wright, a Harrisburg real estate man, said he had a firm offer of $300,000 for Cox's place. He did not name the potential buyers.

Besides raising campaign funds, Cox said he wants to rid himself of the farm so he can be with his family during the school term. For the past four years, Mrs. Cox has lived in Little Rock nine months of the year so three of the couple's five children could attend city schools.

Cox said he probably would invest the remaining money in acreage in the Little Rock area.

Cox said he has spent about $7,500, all his own money, so far in the campaign. He has not accepted political contributions.

He will accept financial help in the runoff, Cox said, but donors will have to agree to having their names and the amount of their contributions made public.

"These secret contributors, they want you to do them a favor, and that would be to kill somebody for them, either financially or otherwise," Cox said.

Cox said he would retain possession of the Weiner farm until Jan. 1 so he can harvest this year's cotton and rice crop.

with antisegregation demonstrations.

King, who had urged at a mass rally that the Negroes march said the violence "developed apparently from some onlookers who were not part of our movement."

Chief Judge Elbert P. Tuttle of the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals opened the way for renewed demonstrations by staying a temporary injunction against such protests. The injunction, issued Friday by U.S. Dist. Judge J. Robert Elliott, comes up for a hearing Monday in Albany.

Tuttle held that Elliott lacked jurisdiction for the sweeping order which banned marches, picketing, and boycotting by several persons and groups spearheading the integration fight here.

Re-Elect JUDGE George Rose Smith

To The ARKANSAS SUPREME COURT

Political Adv. Paid for by Judge George Rose Smith, Campaign Committee, L. L. Stewart, Chairman

The case reproduced here from the official "Reports Of The Arkansas Supreme Court" shows how my opponent, while sworn to represent you as Attorney General, represented Jimmy Hoffa's Teamsters. He did the same thing in the case of Bunch V. Launis, 222 Ark. 760 (1953).

If he represented Hoffa as Attorney General, who would he represent as Supreme Court Judge ???

Judge George Rose Smith has a record of 13 years service as a fair and impartial judge. His opponent has proclaimed his allegiance to special interest groups.

Political Feud Round to Sheriff

By JOHN R. STARR

MORRILLTON, Ark. (AP)—Sheriff Marlin Hawkins won a round today in the continuing political feud in Conway County over how primary elections will be handled.

The county Democratic Central Committee sidetracked an effort by the Better Government League to have a hand in selection of judges and clerks for the July 31 primary.

The league opposes Hawkins and contends that he controls the county politically.

The league is aligned with Gene Wirges, publisher of the Morrilton Democrat, who has asked the Federal Bureau of Investigation to look into alleged voting irregularities in the county.

After the committee approved prepared lists of judges and clerks at its meeting today, Eugene Gifford of Morrilton made a motion that candidates not in office be allowed to recommend one judge and one clerk in each precinct.

"The motion died for want of a second. Jeff Mobley of Russellville, a candidate for prosecuting attorney, promptly got the floor and asked the committee:

"If there is nothing to hide, I see no reason why you should object to these candidates having an election official so they can see for themselves what is going on."

Earlier, Mobley engaged in an exchange of words with Sheriff Marlin Hawkins.

Hawkins said, "The Better Government League has been doing a lot of talking about who is violating the law. The law states the Democratic Committee shall rolled to their fifth straight triumph and sixth in the last seven games, belting hapless New York 11-5 Wednesday night. Adcock, who had troubles at the plate until the second half of the season, continued his hot hitting with a solo homer in the first and then a grand slam in the seventh. The 34-year-old first baseman moved into fourth place among the league's all-time grand slam hitters with his second bases-loaded blast of the season and No. 10 of his career.

Adcock and Mathews were set by injuries early this season and their silent bats were held a major reason for the Braves' failure in dropping into the second division. "I'm hitting the ball good—real good," Mathews said. "I just hope we all can continue. It's about time we got some runs." "It seems you could show the candidates this courtesy," he said. "True, this committee has the final say, but we look on this as the only means for a fair and honest election. Is there no man here who will second such a motion?"

Although Mobley, as a candidate, was permitted to speak, Gifford appeared to be the only committeeman with any sympathy for the Better Government League cause.

The committee skirted one threatened controversy by voting at the onset of the meeting to exclude government employees from eligibility as election officials under Article 3, Section 1 of the State Constitution.

The Better Government League had prepared to argue if any effort were made to place government employees on the list of officials.

The committee also voted to ignore a mandate from the Democratic State Committee calling on election officials to check voter credentials and deny the ballot to those who did not support Democratic nominees in the 1960 general election.

Hawkins made a brief speech against the state committee action.

"I believe that any Democrat

Airline and Engineers End Dispute

By LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pan American World Airways and its flight engineers settled their labor dispute today on terms proposed by Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg.

The agreement, announced by Goldberg at 2 a.m. following a six-hour surprise negotiating session, calls for binding arbitration of economic issues and settlement of the tangled jet crew issues along lines he proposed earlier in the week.

To a great extent the Flight Engineers International Association will be getting what it wanted. When the airlines cut their jet crews from four to three men, currently employed engineers will have priority for the third spot.

Even as the negotiators were meeting, a new strike threat was posed by the Transport Workers Union against Pan American and Northeast Airlines.

The Pan American settlement had no direct relation to the engineers' 33-day old strike against Eastern Air Lines. But since the terms were identical to those rejected for the second time Tuesday by Eastern after acceptance by the union, it appeared the agreement might have a bearing on the Eastern strike.

Goldberg said Eastern had considered his proposals acceptable earlier. A Labor Department spokesman said no new meetings were planned in the Eastern strike, adding "the next move is up to them."

Eastern's offer to hire its 575 striking engineers on an individual basis expired at midnight. The offer had been accompanied by the threat that engineers not reporting for work would lose their rights to jet flight engineer jobs. The company did not say how many had returned.

Eastern resumed limited operations Monday and continued Tuesday with two flights each way between Miami and New York.

Both Pan American and Eastern were struck on June 23. Within four hours Pan American, the nation's biggest overseas carrier, had obtained a federal court restraining order against the union.

Eastern made no attempt to get a legal ban or postponement of the strike.

Throughout the dispute, and in similar negotiations with Trans World Airlines and American Airlines, the jet crew issue has been foremost.

The airlines are expected to announce shortly reduction of jet cockpit crews from four men to three. The flight engineers want the third job. The airlines want men trained as pilots to hold it.

Goldberg's proposal, to which Pan American and the union agreed, was that engineers currently working for the airline would get the job, until attrition gradually cuts their ranks, at which time pilot-trained men also would be employed in the third slot. The engineers agree to take

GOV. ORVAL E. FAUBUS, 52, first got into politics as circuit clerk in Madison County (1936-42). After military service with the infantry, he was named acting postmaster at Huntsville in 1946. A year later he bought a weekly newspaper and in 1949 he entered state politics, serving as highway commissioner, governor's aide and highway director in the McMath administration. He was elected governor as a dark-horse candidate in 1954, beating Francis Cherry in a runoff. He was re-elected, without a runoff, in 1956-58-60. Faubus became an international figure in 1957-58 by using National Guard troops to block integration of Central High and later closing Little Rock Schools against integration. Faubus and his wife, Alta, have one son, Farrell, a law student at the University of Arkansas.

SID MCMATH, 49, was the colorful boy politician of the late 1940s. Elected as Garland County Prosecutor on a veteran's ticket in 1946, he helped overthrow the regime of Mayor Leo McLaughlin, political

Spy Would Go Back to Israel

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Dr. Robert Soblen's lawyer today filed an application to allow the convicted Soviet spy facing a life sentence in the United States to return to Israel as an immigrant.

The lawyer, Dr. Ari Ankorian, said he made the plea to Interior Minister Moshe Shapira.

Soblen, 61, is in a British prison awaiting his appeal against a court judgement refusing his plea to remain in Britain.

He jumped bail in June and fled to Israel two days before he was to surrender to a New York court to begin his sentence.

Estes' Arrest Brought No Quick Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even after Billie Sol Estes was arrested, a routine report to the Agriculture Department said investigation of his case was "deferred for greater priority."

And a department lawyer acknowledged that he never did pass on to other states and "urgent" and early warning from Georgia against cotton acreage allotment deals of the type Estes engineered.

These stories were told as Senate and House subcommittees continued separate probes of the activities of the Texas financier.

Paul Rapp, a staff lawyer in the department's general counsel's office, told the Senate Investigations subcommittee he figured "it wasn't our responsibility" to alert the other states about potentially widespread Estes cotton deals, although the department had ruled they were outside the law.

The story of the routine reports was told to a House investigating subcommittee by R. E. Turner, a Dallas investigator for the department.

Estes was arrested by the FBI in Texas on March 29. Turner's monthly report on the status of cases assigned to him was forwarded to the regional office in Atlanta the next day. It carried the same notation that had appeared on every monthly report since Turner took up the case in October 1961: "Deferred for greater priority."

Turner said he considered several other cases assigned to him of greater importance.

DAVID A. COX, 46, has waged an unorthodox campaign and has been thrust into the spotlight by brushes with the law in Springfield and Weiner. He has appeared at several political functions but most of his campaigning has been of the handshaking variety. Born in Kentucky, Cox moved to Arkansas in 1928 and he now farms a 1,700 acre plantation near Weiner. He made an unsuccessful race for the state Senate in 1958 and threatened to run for some state office in 1960. Most political observers were surprised when he paid the $1,500 filing fee shortly before the ticket closed this year.

Advisers Are Called in by Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has tentatively scheduled a meeting of top military and diplomatic advisers for Friday to seek a decision on how much the United States can cut back its demands for an inspection provision in a nuclear test ban treaty with the Soviet Union.

Congressional atomic experts, it was learned, have warned the administration to proceed with extreme caution in reducing inspection requirements in an effort to obtain Soviet agreement.

The whole issue has been reopened during the past month because of new scientific findings which indicate that cheating on a test ban agreement may be more difficult to conceal, even for a closed country, than U.S. scientists and officials had previously believed.

Both President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk have said research would not, so far as they knew, eliminate the need for dependable control posts within the Soviet Union. Nor would it be possible to abolish the U.S.-British demand for the right to make a number of on-site inspections yearly in the Soviet Union.

The Washington Post reported in today's editions that a major debate is going on within the administration over how much the United States can trim its terms.

WILLIS RICKETTS, 36, is a disenchanted Democrat who whetted his appetite for politics in a term as state president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. He became a Republican a year ago and is opposed for the GOP nomination after the withdrawal of W. Harold Sadler. Ricketts, a druggist by trade, is married and the father of two children.

Investigation of Wreckage

HONOLULU (AP) — Canadian and American investigators probed the scattered wreckage of a Canadian airliner today, seeking clues to why it crashed while making an apparently routine three-engine emergency landing late Sunday night.

Twenty passengers and seven crew members on the four-engine prop died. Thirteen survivors, who were in the tail section, suffered relatively minor injuries in the first fatal commercial airliner crash in Hawaiian history.

Three American residents were listed among the identified dead. One, Arthur Pudney of Los Angeles, Calif., had moved to California from New Zealand only recently to take care of business affairs.

The others were A. Rodger Denison of Tulsa, Okla., a vice president since 1950 of Amerasia Petroleum, and his wife, Maud. Denison represented the U.S. government at the International Geological Congress in Mexico in 1956 and in Copenhagen in 1960.

Business Looking More to Politics

EDITOR'S NOTE — The clash between President Kennedy and Big Steel raised questions whether businessmen should take a more active role in politics in order to make their views more effective. The following first three articles tell of the new "businessman-in-politics" movement.

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Across the land, the idea is taking root in the business community that the businessman belongs in politics—from the precinct level on up.

It is not a brand new idea, but a conviction seems to be growing in some sectors that the businessman has held too aloof too long, mistakenly feeling he hasn't the time or, as a Ford Motor Co. executive put it, that "politics are sordid and a little dirty."

Some prominent industrialists are also wondering aloud if past aloofness on their part isn't a basic cause of what they believe is a misunderstanding of the business community in Washington.

In a reversal of old positions, more than 250 business corporations, including some of the biggest, are systematically spurring management personnel to wade into politics, and run for office, too.

There are predictions of great growth of the businessman-in-politics movement despite some doubt within the business community itself of methods used or goals to be achieved.

The latest businessmen-in-politics movement was given fresh impetus by the government-Big Steel clash over a price hike last April; the resultant debate over business-government relations, and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's call for business men "to get into politics—and quick."

Some companies, even before these recent events, started political education activities programs stressing free enterprise economics and some of the evils of socialism and communism just as unions dwell on welfare and civil rights questions.

"The U.S. Chamber of Commerce reports that in the last 3½ years possibly 300,000 persons, mostly businessmen, have taken its 'Action Course in Practical Politics' in 1,700 communities.

A leading force in the businessman-in-politics movement is a small non-profit agency backed by the General Electric Co., Standard Oil of Indiana and many other firms of similar stature. Its purpose: "To arouse the business community from its slumber."

Called the Effective Citizens Organization, its advisory council is headed by former President Herbert Hoover. On its council are Henry Ford II, James A. Farley, George M. Humphrey, secretary of the Treasury under Eisenhower, and Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston.

The citizens group urges the generals of finance and industry and their lieutenants to get out after office hours and join the political troops, as for soldiers, if need be.

"The result, the organization argues, will be an infusion of new and talented blood into both the Republican and Democratic party ranks of dorbelt ringers and office holders, with benefits to the nation's public life—and indirectly to the business community.

Some conservative Republican corporation heads see the aim as "redressing the balance" in federal executive and legislative policy shaping, which they say is labor and liberal dominated.

One recent expression of the businessman's acceptance of his role in politics was the choice of Syracuse industrialist David H. Jaquith as Conservative party nominee for governor of New York.

Said Jaquith: "I am taking President Eisenhower's words to heart."

Jaquith, a follower of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., reflected widespread sentiment in business in calling for "less government instead of more" and urging an end to the "liberal stranglehold over both political parties in 1960."

Even by optimistic reckoning scarcely five per cent of the nation's business ventures have joined in the businessman-in-politics movement. Many of these are groping cautiously, even timidly, into strange territory until recently regarded as "off limits."

In a very real way, of course, some corporations always have been hip-deep in politics—going back to the days of the railroad and utility barons, exerting influence through lobbying, trade associations and individual contributions to candidates.

It's the coming out from behind the scenes that is new.

Thursday: The corporate role in politics.

Walpurgis Night is the German name for the eve of May Day, when the feast of Walpurgis, a German saint, is celebrated. The eve is celebrated somewhat as Americans observe Allouen.

Law Delays Abortion in Phoenix Case

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A Phoenix woman broke into tears when she learned that legal complications had halted plans to abort her three-month pregnancy.

The woman, who has taken a drug blamed for the births of numerous malformed babies in Europe, had been scheduled to enter Good Samaritan Hospital today for the operation.

"I don't know what I'll do now," she said when informed hospital administrator Stephen Morris had canceled the operation.

The woman says she took some sleeping pills containing the drug, thalidomide, during her first weeks of pregnancy. She decided on an operation after a secret three-man panel of medical specialists, recommended abortion.

Arizona law forbids abortion except to save the life of the mother.

"Everything is being held in abeyance until the legal determination is made," Morris said. "It should be cleared up in a couple of days."

The woman said Tuesday she and her husband, a high school teacher, don't want to risk bringing a malformed child into the world.

The woman, who is in her 30s, said her husband obtained the thalidomide on a trip to Europe last year. She took some of the pills after they returned to Arizona.

Strike Ballots

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Air Line Employees Association AFL-CIO, has been authorized to issue strike ballots to employees of Trans-Texas Airways, which serves Arkansas, Texas, Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana. Negotiations for a new contract have been underway since Oct. 30. No date for a possible strike was mentioned.

Thinks Puerto Rico Should Vote Choice

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy notified Puerto Rico's governor today he agrees that the people of Puerto Rico now should vote on their preference for independence, statehood, or perfecting the present commonwealth form of government.

Kennedy's views were in a letter the White House said Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson would deliver today to Gov. Luis Munoz Marin. Kennedy appointed Johnson to represent the people of the United States on the celebration today of the 10th anniversary of the founding of the commonwealth government.

Hundreds cheered Johnson Tuesday night on his arrival in San Juan.

Munoz had written the President that he believes the time has come for growth and improvement of the commonwealth system. He said he intended to ask the Puerto Rican Legislature to enact a law that would submit to a vote of the people proposals within its association with the United States.

"It is my purpose also," Munoz told Kennedy, "to recommend that advocates of both independence and federated statehood for Puerto Rico should be afforded the opportunity in the legislation to present these alternatives to the electorate, so that no doubt whatever may be entertained either in Puerto Rico, in the United States or elsewhere that the basic United States Principle of self-determination has been thoroughly carried out."

The Munoz letter was dated July 10. Kennedy's answer was dated July 24.

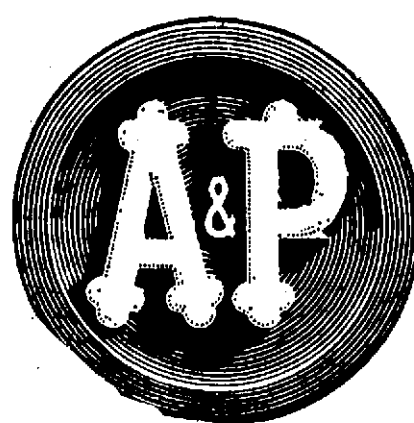

The President said he is aware that the commonwealth relationship is not perfected and has not realized its full potential. He said he is in full sympathy with the aspiration Munoz expressed for maximum development of the commonwealth system.

The commonwealth is a governing entity permanently affiliated with the United States. In Congress it has only a resident commissioner without a vote.

Officials Talk
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and Ecuador's President Carlos Julio Arosemena have ended two days of talks by pledging a united front against aggression "either from within or from outside of the hemisphere." The talks ended Tuesday.

Injuries Fatal
CROSSETT, Ark. (AP)—Mrs. Roberta Furlow, 54, a Dermott Negro, died Sunday of injuries suffered in a car wreck Friday on U.S. 82 four miles east of Crossett. She became the fourth victim of the crash. The other victims, all from Atlanta, Ga., were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bradley and Mrs. Blanche Hall who were in one of the cars.

Kids Sniff Glue Vapors, Go on Binge

By JOE MCGOWAN JR.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A hangover which thrill-seeking youngsters obtain from sniffing glue vapors is giving Miami authorities a king-size headache.

Officials say the kid is extremely dangerous and can have fatal results.

"Glue sniffing" is a means discovered by juveniles, below legal drinking age, to buy themselves up on something approximating jax.

Most popular procedure among greater Miami youths, authorities say, is to squeeze the glue from tubes into paper sacks, then hold the bags to the face and inhale.

Immediate effects include dizziness, a drunk or euphoric feeling, hallucinations or vivid dreams in color and extreme exhilaration.

Signs point to such long-range effects as loss of weight, low blood pressure, change of personality, brain and kidney damage, and death.

The state attorney's office instituted an investigation into glue sniffing several months ago after several juveniles were caught holding a "jag party" in an abandoned house.

Two weeks ago, sheriff's officers smashed five juvenile gangs in the Perrine area southwest of Miami as the result of investigation into a wave of burglaries and car thefts. Officers reported many of the 31 boys arrested had been sniffing glue.

Investigating officers said the glue sniffers did much of their burglarizing in the exhilarating stage that followed wooziness.

Psychoneurotic Cases in Army

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department said today the Army is accepting some men with psychoneurotic histories, and has done so for a number of years.

"This does not represent any significant change in Army policy over the past several years," it said.

The department said that neither the Navy nor the Air Force are accepting men with psychoneurotic problems.

Teacher in Ad Expains Position

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Mrs. Kathryn Johnson, whose name was used in a campaign advertisement for Gov. Orval E. Faubus, clarified her position today as a teacher.

She said she is now a parochial school teacher but had taught in public schools for 14 years. She also said she was a member of the Arkansas Education Association for five years.

The AEA charged Tuesday that Faubus campaigners were trying to portray her as a public school teacher backing the governor by listing her as "15 years a public school teacher."

The AEA also said she was not a member of the AEA.

Faubus' campaign headquarters, where Mrs. Johnson is working, said the ad in a Little Rock newspaper wasn't intended to imply that she was a public school teacher.

Mrs. Johnson, of Little Rock and Lake Village, said she taught in Figures on Jobs, Income and Spending

EDITOR'S NOTE—The consumer may be turning cautious but at mid summer he's still doing bravely by the economy. In this, second of four articles on the state of the economy, Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst, looks at the figures on jobs, income and spending.

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—"Records set" says the headline in one column of your newspaper. "Storm signals flying" may be the adjoining heading.

The first is mathematically correct. The second can quote figures, too. And opinions today on what's ahead for businessmen and consumers are as sharply divided as the headlines seem at first glance.

As the big debate starts on whether the economy is anemic and needs some pep pills, such as a tax cut, here's a brief rundown on the latest economic blood count:

More than 69.5 million persons have jobs at the latest estimate. That tops the previous record of 68.7 million in June 1961. Most of the increase in work opportunities in recent years has been in the service industries. The old line basic industries of manufacturing, mining, farming, have shown comparatively little growth, and in some instances the number of workers has declined.

And in many manufacturing companies the number of white collar employees has grown at a much faster rate than the ranks of the blue collar, or production, workers.

The number of jobless in June was put at just under 4.5 million, or 5.5 per cent of the total labor force. But since the labor force is 285,000 smaller than a year ago although total population has grown, many observers feel that an uncounted number of persons have just given up looking for work.

If they were included, the number of jobless would be even more disturbing. Labor leaders also contend that large numbers of persons working only part time should be counted when considering how far the nation is falling behind its legally set goal of full employment.

The record number of those with jobs helped send total personal income to an annual rate of $440.4 billion in June, compared with $439.7 billion in May and $416 billion in June 1961. Also helping swell the total were higher interest paid on savings, larger dividends in many instances, higher rents in some places, and bigger fees for some services.

This burgeoning total of personal income gave a glow to the whole economy. Disappointing was that the month-to-month increase had grown slimmer this year.

Consumers were spending this income and taking on debt without too much signs yet of scrimping. Total retail sales in June at $19.1 billion were down $3 million from May and below the April record of $19.6 billion, but comfortably above the June 1961 figure of $17.9 billion.

Department store sales for the year to mid July were 5 per cent ahead of the like period last year. Consumer installment debt in May was $43.9 billion, up $4 million from April and $1.8 billion ahead of March, indicating the public was confident enough to take on new obligations.

On the bare statistics themselves—employment, income, consumer spending and installment buying—the economy looked fairly healthy in midsummer. It was the slowing pace of growth that worried the planners, along with some warning signals that the pace might slacken further.

Thursday: Many industries flourishing even as they fret.

Territory Dispute

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A complaint has been filed by Southwestern Electric Power Co. with the state Public Service Commission, alleging that the Ozarks Electric Cooperative Corp. is serving 165 customers exclusively in Southwestern's territory. The complaint is based on an allocation of territory for private utilities and co-ops under state law.

public schools in Johnson County, Smackover, Fulton and Lake Village. She taught last year at Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic School in Little Rock.

In the ad, Mrs. Johnson was quoted as saying she would support Faubus for governor because he has been a good governor, will continue to be if reelected, "and, another thing, the increase in the teachers' salaries. They are greater than they have ever been in history. At one time the teachers were leaving Arkansas to find other jobs, and now they're staying here."

Faubus' headquarters said Mrs. Johnson actually had taught in public schools 14 years, instead of 15 as listed in the ad.

Hospital Fire, 250 Moved

NEW YORK (AP)—Nurs helped evacuate 255 patients today when a fast-moving fire broke out in a loft of St. Mary's Hospital in Brooklyn.

No patients was injured. The three-alarm blaze was brought under control within 20 minutes.

Where the evacuated patients would be placed was not determined immediately. All 295 of them, including 65 newborn infants, were taken temporarily to a lawn surrounding the block-square, five-story, 77-year-old red-brick building.

Later, patients who had been on operating tables when the flames started were returned for treatment.

Cause of the blaze was not determined at once.

Some patients were getting intravenous injections, while lying on cots or stretchers on the lawn or sitting in chairs. The first floor houses general pediatrics, the second medicine and surgery for men, the third medicine and surgery for women, the fourth maternity cases and the fifth delivery and operating rooms.

Flames broke out in a loft atop the fifth floor.

How They Voted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Representatives E. C. Gathings, Oren

Harris and Catherine Norrell voted against a House foreign aid authorization bill passed and sent to the White House Tuesday. Rep. Dale Alford was recorded as being against the bill, but did not vote.

Dies in Accident
JONESBORO, Ill. (AP)—Jerald H. Foster, 40, of Corning, Ark., was killed Monday when his watermelon-laden truck crashed down an embankment off Illinois 146 and overturned.
